SCARLET MINIVET .
The Scarlet Minivets are common resident breeding birds in forests and other well-wooded habitats including gardens. The males are scarlet to orange with black upper parts, the females are usually yellow with greyish olive upper parts. It catches insects in trees by flycatching or while perched. It nests high up in the treetops. The nest is a cup-like structure woven with small twigs and spiders' webs to increase the strength of the nest. Two or three spotted pale green eggs are laid.
